IN publishing this 1925 edition of THE BULLDOG the staff has in view two purposes:*

To recall to the minds of our fellow students the year of work and pleasure spent in the Henderson High School.

To bring to the minds of those who have already gone forth in the world fond recollections of their High School life.

If this book serves these two purposes, we are satisfied, for we have succeeded.

JOHN THOMAS ALDERMAN

DEDICATION

TO

MR. JOHN THOMAS ALDERMAN

*T*O be loved, admired, respected and followed, forms that intangible thing known as greatness. It is indeed a tribute to any man to herald to the world that he has so lived that his deeds are a shining mark by which other men should seek to mould their lives, ambitions, and struggles among their fellow men.

In Henderson there has dwelt such a man. To great men great things should be dedicated. This annual is small in its scope and its sphere is limited, yet to us who created it, it represents a culmination of the greatest thing that we have to offer, namely, a memorial to our happy school days. It is with pride therefore, that to Mr. J. T. Alderman, our former beloved superintendent, that we dedicate this annual. His undying efforts to place education in the reach of everyone is common knowledge to all. Unceasingly he has fought the evils of ignorance and at heart every child's welfare is a part of his life. Words of praise are inadequate to express that feeling of warmth and respect that so completely fills us when we review the unselfish deeds of his life and the shining example that he, as a Christian gentleman, has set for us all.

Long after this annual is forgotten in the dust of time, and we, its creators, have run our course of life and ceased to be, shall the benevolent light that forever shone in his eyes for the children that he loved, and in whose behalf he ever labored, be remembered as a thing beautiful to the memory of man.

PARTING WORDS OF THE SENIORS

We hate to leave this old high school,
For dear to us it's grown—
To travel in this huge, wide world
All unskilled and alone.

But we know we leave behind us,
Hearts who ever true will be,
Ever loyal Alma Mater,
Our mother dear to thee.

First come our tiny freshmen—
Your babies, sweet and fair,
Who with the proper training,
Will turn to students rare.

This training, earnest Sophomores,
We leave to your command.
And hope with all our might and main
You'll spare not heart nor hand.

And here, our jolly Juniors,
Is our best wish to you,
That you may strive toward your goal,
Both honestly and true.

And now, incoming Seniors true,
You've almost won your prize.
We hope you'll find it what you think,
A kind of paradise.

And then our hard-worked faculty,
Keep making students true,
Whom we hope will ever be
A credit unto you.

So all our fellow students,
Both fair to us and kind,
This parting word of '25
We hope you'll keep in mind.

The '25 Bulldog

EUGENE WESLEY ADCOCK

Activities: A. A., '22, '23, '24, '25; Radio Club, '25; Assistant Art Editor "Bulldog," '25; Tennis Club, '25.

Here is a jolly good fellow who seems never to worry about anything. Eugene has never manifested any passionate devotion to his studies, but he is an artist of no mean ability. Some day we expect to see his name occupying as prominent a position in the comic sections of newspapers as that of Bud Fisher or Sidney Smith.

GEORGE ROBERT AYCOCK

Activities: A. A., '23, '24, '25.

Now we admit that George is rather quiet and sometimes solemn and would not be called the "grand entertainer" at a meeting of the "girls' embroidery club," but when it comes to having real and honest-to-goodness friends he is right there.

LUCY GILL AYSCUE

Activities: Literary Society, '25.

An outstanding characteristic of this self-possessed young senior is her positive devotion to history. No matter how long the lesson or how intricate the details Lucy is prepared. This however, is not her only noticeable trait. She is studious, conscientious, willing to help--an all-round good Senior.

HORACE LISTER BASS

Activities: A. A., '23, '24, '25; Treasurer Class, '25; Dramatics, '25; President Medical Club; Football, '22, '23, '24; Circulation Manager of "Chatter-Box."

In Horace we behold a future doctor. We wish him success. He has been prominent in athletics and has helped to win many games. He always complains of his studies, but we notice that he manages in some way to get by.

The '25 Bulldog

WILLIAM HENRY BRYAN

Activities: A. A., '22, '23, '24, '25.

Can you read your Cicero today? No, but William can. Understand the significance of that statement? Here is actually a boy whose devotion to that subject is sincere and profound! This, however, is not his only virtue. He is one of our steady, dependable fellows, who gives his best, and at the same time presents a smiling face to the world.

ROBERT DEAN BUNN

Activities: A. A., '22, '23, '24, '25; Hi-Y Club, '23, '24, '25; President Hi-Y Club, '25; Sigma Lambda, '24; Dramatic Club, '25; Class Musician, '25.

Robert is that kind of fellow who always puts things in a nut-shell—everything but his voice. In his studies he tries hard and gets by with credit. He is very fond of mixing chemicals and seeing what they will do. Let us hope that he will not make a mistake and get blown into fragments.

GEORGE KITTRELL CHEATHAM

Activities: Football, '23, '24; Basketball, '24, '25; Hi-Y, '23; Dramatics, '25; Marshal, '24.

George believes his studies to be a necessary evil and passes them, not by hard work, but by using his head—for his cranium houses a fine mind. He is a good athlete and plays all three sports. The fact that we elected him for our Junior president shows what the Seniors think of him. He will, no doubt, be as well thought of by his friends in the business world.

BERTHA RUTH CLAYTON

Activities: A. A., '22, '23, '24, '25; Basketball, '24, '25.

A rare combination of quiet reserve and sly humor is Bertha. Consequently, she makes the mischief and we get the punishment. She is a good student, whom the teachers know to have always studied her lessons. Furthermore she is a good sport, having made varsity two years. To one with such mixed qualities the future will surely be varied and interesting.

The '25 Bulldog

ROBERT MARSTON CLIFTON

Activities: A. A., '22, '23, '24, '25; Sigma Lambda, '24; Hi-Y Club, '25; Reporter "Chatter-Box," '25; Class Poet, '24, '25.

Marston is not noted for speed but he gets there just the same. He does his school work well and has shown genuine ability as a poet. He can make rhymes suitable for any occasion. For a proof of this statement turn to our Class Poem.

MITTIE COFFIELD CRUDUP

Activities: A. A., '22, '23, '24, '25; Dramatics, '25; Hiking Club, '25; Basketball, '25; Literary Society, '24, '25; Reporter "Chatter-Box," '25; Glee Club, '25; Tennis Club, '25.

Mittie is one of the most popular girls in the class of '25, and one of those who is sweet to every one. She talks all the time, and when she is not talking she is giggling, or eating sour pickles. When Mittie is in the room there is no danger of a dull period. She is one of our star basketball players, too. On the whole, she is just a real good sport and a real good "pal."

CONSTANCE EDITH ELLIS

Constance joined us in our Sophomore year and her pleasing manner and easy adaptability soon made us feel that she had been with us from the start. She is a good business girl and has the absolute confidence of the entire student body in any of her undertakings. She always attempts to find the good in people and earnestly believes in forgetting their faults. We are only too proud to claim her as a member of our class.

DORIS HUNTER ELLIS

Activities: A. A., '23, '24, '25; Clonian, '25.

Doris is one of our quiet, reserved members. No one ever heard of her "doing time" in the detention hall. She minds her own business very well indeed, and leaves others to look out for theirs. Yet, notwithstanding her quietness, she has a worthy place among her Senior classmates.

The '25 Bulldog

LULA BLANCHE FAULKNER

Activities: A. A., '22, '23, '24, '25; Basketball, '25; Hiking Club, '25; Medical Club, '25.

Lula is one of the sweetest and kindest girls of the Senior Class. She thoroughly enjoys life and we believe it is because she doesn't worry, but just takes things as they come. We are prone to believe that her heart lies buried in Louisburg, or why should she be always talking about it? What would the Senior Class do without Lula?

NANNIE BARBREE FAULKNER

Activities: A. A., '23, '24, '25; Junior Secretary; Sigma Lambda, '24, '25; Hiking Club, '25; Class Prophetess.

Nannie has two positive accomplishments. One is the "gift o' gab" and the other is an indomitable cheerfulness of spirit. She is happy when she is talking and she is always talking. Perhaps it is these traits that take her through so victoriously. Anyway, she leaves behind an enviable record and a host of friends.

THELMA FINCH

Activities: A. A., '22, '23, '24, '25; Sigma Lambda, '24; Chionian, '25; Hiking Club, '25; Tennis, '25.

Who is that laughing? Any Senior will tell you it is Thelma. Her tickle-box is always overturned. Such jolly spirits are contagious, and we like to have Thelma always in our midst. There is happiness in store for her, for we believe the saying, "Laugh and the world laughs with you," fits her exactly.

ALFRED WADDELL GHOLSON, JR

Activities: A. A., '22, '23, '24, '25; Vice-President Junior Class, '24; Secretary and Treasurer of A. A., '25; Athletic Reporter, '24, '25; Manager Football, '24; President Senior Class; Editor-in-Chief of "Bulldog"; Literary Society, '24; Dramatics, '24, '25; Hi-Y Club, '23, '24, '25; Junior Editor of "Pep-Pac," '24; Secretary Hi-Y, '23; Vice-President Hi-Y, '24.

"Urchin" is the most popular member of the Senior Class and for that matter of the entire student-body. Although not very great in stature he has the . . . to play football. He does well whatever he attempts and is a jolly good fellow. We are certain that he will make a success.

The '25 Bulldog

LOIS MARIE GOODRICH

Activities: A. A., '22, '24, '25; Sigma Lambda, '24, '25; Medical Club, '25; Glee Club, '25; Hiking Club, '25.

All Seniors like parties but Lois simply adores them. Her enthusiasm is in evidence at all times, but when there is a party in the air, it simply bubbles over. She is just naturally socially inclined. She studies some, too, and lends her whole-hearted support to general school activities.

MARY BELLE HICKS

Activities: A. A., '25; Dramatic Club, '25; Sigma Lambda, '25; Glee Club, '25; Hiking Club, '25.

It was almost time for our class to break up before Mary Belle joined us, but sunny dispositions and bright smiles can easily find for themselves a place in any company. She has won for herself a host of friends and she will leave an impression which will cause us to remember her long after the class has broken up. Mary Belle, we wish you much luck.

GEORGE LENARD JOHNSON

Activities: A. A., '22, '23, '24, '25; E. B. B., '24, '25; Basketball, '22; Medical Club, '25.

George, perhaps, has the most solemn face of any of the Seniors. He sits on class with a look as stoical as that of the American Indian. Nevertheless he is a good student and we predict success for him along mechanical lines.

STELLA GRAY JOHNSON

Activities: Raleigh H. S., '22, '23; A. A., '24, '25; Sigma Lambda, '24; Chionian, '25; Dramatics, '25; Hiking Club, '25.

Behold our math genius! She works originals with an ease that makes the rest of us despair, and the patience with which she explains the solutions to those of us less fortunate than she, is veritably that of Job. Though she shines on math, she averages high on all of her work—a good student, and a worthy senior.

The '25 Bulldog

PEARL KING

Activities: A. A., '22, '23, '24, '25; Sigma Lambda, '25; Hiking Club, '25; Glee Club, '25.

Pearl's golden curls are among the attractive sights of the school. Time was when she wore them long, but now they are cut according to the latest bob. Pearl divides her time equally between her duties and her pleasures, being careful not to neglect one for the other.

DAISY PLEASANT LOWRY

Activities: A. A., '22, '23, '24, '25; Vice-President of A. A., '25; Basketball, '23, '24, '25; Captain Basketball, '24; Hiking Club, '25.

They say that every cloud has a silver lining but some days in High School we are inclined to doubt it; then along comes Daisy, always cheerful, always laughing, and pretty soon we regain our faith in the above quotation. As well as being a good student, Daisy has won fame on the basketball court, playing on the Varsity for three years. We hope she will succeed in life as she has in her school activities.

ELMA MAE MASSEE

Activities: A. A., '22, '23, '24, '25; Hiking Club, '25; Glee Club, '25; Dramatics, '25; Sigma Lambda, '24; Clionian, '25; Tennis Club, '25.

Elma Mae is one who is ever ready to laugh with those who are happy and mourn with the sad—in other words, just a good natured, sweet tempered and loving girl.

KATHERINE J. MOSS

Activities: A. A., '23, '24, '25; Dramatic Club, '25; Hiking Club, '25; Orchestra, '25; Chaplain Sigma Lambda, '24; Clionian, '25; Glee Club, '25; Secretary Senior Class, '25; Class Musician, '25.

Pretty, talkative, and sweet—that's Katie. She is certainly the prettiest girl in the class, if you don't believe it ask—well, anybody. Her tongue rarely ever ceases to move, and yet, what she says is interesting—a thing which cannot be said about many girls. When you leave us you will carry with you a big part of the heart of the Class of '25. We wish you everything good and happy that your future life may hold.

The '25 Bulldog

JAMES ICEM MILLER

Activities: A. A., '23, '24, '25; Football, '23, '24; Hi-Y Club, '23, '24; Dramatics, '24, '25; Tennis Club, '25; Class Statistician, '25; Basketball, '25.

If she loves me this believe,
I would die ere she should grieve;
If she slight me when I woo
I can scorn and let her go.

These lines truly apply to Jimmie; he is a real sheik. No chance ever comes for him to be with the ladies that he does not take advantage of it. Besides running after the ladies he is a good pigskin chaser.

H. WALTON MIXON

Activities: A. A., '22, '23, '24, '25; Hi-Y Club, '23, '24, '25; Medical Club, '25; Sigma Lambda, '24.

We had a "Blushing Mixie" in last year's class, we have a "Blushing Mixie" in this year's class, and we shall have a "Blushing Mixie" in next year's class. This year we are lucky enough to have "Chicken." He is a friend, staunch and true, always ready with a smiling face and a helping hand. You'd do well to meet Chicken.

SALLY LEWIS MARROW

Activities: A. A., '23, '24, '25; Sigma Lambda, '25; Glee Club, '25.

Dignity is an adjective misappropriately applied to most Seniors, but it fits Sally. However, it is pleasing to know that underneath this mask of stateliness there is a delightful sense of humor which enables Sally to enjoy many jokes on the side.

VIRGINIA VASTYE NELSON

Activities: A. A., '23, '24, '25; Sigma Lambda, '24; Chionian, '25; Hiking Club, '25.

Here is a girl who is usually quiet, but who has a cheerful smile which, when she forgets her senior dignity, sometimes breaks into a giggle. She is faithful to her school duties and loyal to her class and friends.

The '25 Bulldog

MELVILLE CARY NELSON

Activities: A. A., '22, '23, '24, '25; Hi-Y Club, '24, '25; Reporter of "Chatter-Box," '25; Basketball, '25; Senior Editor of "Bulldog," '25.

Cary, tall and slim
Is not so full of vim,
But when he begins a task
He sticks tight 'til the last.

Cary is endowed with what most of us lack--a bright mind. In originality and on originals (in Geometry) he shines. He is quiet and unassuming, but his influence is profoundly felt.

ALICE EVELYN PARHAM

Activities: A. A., '22, '23, '24, '25; Sigma Lambda, '24, '25; Hiking Club, '25; Tennis, '25.

You have heard of people with sweet dispositions, but if you are fortunate enough to be among Evelyn's friends you really know such a person. Her lovable nature has endeared her to her classmates. She is loyal to her school and friends, and we usually find her lined up on the right side.

GLADYS LOUISE PARHAM

Activities: A. A., '22, '23, '24, '25; Sigma Lambda, '24, '25; President of Sigma Lambda, '25; Tennis Club, '25.

Gladys certainly believes in the old saying, "Smile and the world smiles with you." With her friendly ways she has gained many friends among the boys as well as the girls. Although she is not too serious she always prepares her work. With her enthusiasm and joyful nature she has been a bright spot in the Senior Class.

MARY ELIZABETH PORTER

Activities: A. A., '22, '23, '24, '25; Dramatics, '23, '25; Hiking Club, '25; Class Treasurer, '24; Secretary and Treasurer A. A., '25; Tennis Club, '25.

You have before you one of the most attractive members of the Senior Class. She is an all-round good sport and ready at any time to support her class, even though its plans differ from her own. We cannot tell her how much we shall miss her when she graduates, nor how much success we wish for her.

The '25 Bulldog

KNOX DAVIS PORTER

Activities: A. A., '22, '23, '24, '25; Football, '22, '23, '24; Captain Football, '25; Assistant Business Manager of "Pep-Pac"; Business Manager "Bulldog"; Basketball, '23, '24, '25; Treasurer A. A., '23, '24; Vice-President A. A., '25; Business Manager "Chatter-Box."

"Dude's" frank smile and congenial disposition win friends for him easily and make him always welcome in any kind of gathering. In football he is a dependable punter and is valuable to a team as either a backfield or end man. Knox's pastime is not cracking books, but when he wants to be he is a star student.

AILEEN MAE PUCKETT

Activities: A. A., '22, '23, '24, '25; Sigma Lambda, '25; Dramatics, '25; Vice-President Dramatic Club, '25.

Aileen is good natured and cheerful, a friend and pal to all who know her. We are afraid she will find it hard to resist certain outside attractions long enough to win her diploma. She has our best wishes for a bright and happy future.

DORIS CLAIRBOX SHEARIN

Activities: A. A., '22, '23, '24, '25; Manager Basketball, '25; Captain Basketball, '25.

Doris is our star basketball player. She is not only a good player, she knows the principles of good sportsmanship and lives up to them. The fact that she is both Captain and Manager of the team proves her popularity and ability.

JOSEPH GRAHAM STAUNTON

Activities: Writer of Last Will and Testament; Most Studious.

Joseph is our model student. His profound erudition fills the rest of us with awe and wonder. Whether it be French, Latin, English, or Science, there is never a task too large for him to tackle or one too small for him to see; he is always on the job. He appears solemn but returns a smile.

The '25 Bulldog

DOYLE HARTWELL STRANGE

Activities: A. A., '22, '23, '24, '25; Sigma Lambda, '24; Chionian, '25; Radio Club, '25.

Doyle is obliging. He writes up games, helps the teachers, and is always glad to help his friends. He is a star supporter at all the games and meetings. He will be greatly missed next year.

HAROLD ALEXANDER STONE

Activities: A. A., '23, '24, '25; Hi-Y Club, '25.

Harold is one of the best-natured boys in the school. He attends to his own business. He likes to joke but he never gets mad when the joke is turned on him. He gives and takes in the same manner. Harold is generally liked in the school and will be greatly missed next year.

GRACE ELLA SUMPTER

Activities: A. A., '22, '25; Dramatics, '25; Most Attractive, '25; Sigma Lambda, '24; Art Editor of "Pec-Pac," '24; Art Editor of "Bulldog," '25.

Turn to the statistics if you want to know what we all say about Grace: The most attractive girl in the Senior Class. Furthermore, she is an artist of no mean ability. Her drawings in the BULLDOG prove what she can do. We admire her talent and cherish her smile.

ARTELIA ELIZABETH WALTERS

Activities: A. A., '23, '24, '25; Hiking Club, '25; Glee Club, '25; Chionian, '25; Most Dependable, '25; Reporter "Chatter-Box," '25.

Artelia is one of our dependable seniors. No matter what her task—whether it be to get up a report for the "Chatter-Box" or to make punch for the senior party—she is on the job. We are inclined to believe that she isn't any too fond of study; that, however, only increases her popularity among her classmates, for the majority of them hold these same views.

The '25 Bulldog

LUCY SABELIA WESTER

Activities: Glee Club, '25.

Have you ever seen a girl who was never late? The senior class has one. If Lucy says she will be there at nine you may be sure she's there at nine. We would feel lost if we arrived anywhere and she wasn't there. She is one of those persevering individuals whose motto is, "If it isn't all right I'll try it again."

EDWIN SEARCH YARBROUGH, JR.

Activities: A. A., '22, '23, '24, '25; Football, '24; Secretary Hi-Y Club, '23, '24; Vice-President Hi-Y Club, '25; Vice-President Sigma Lambda, '24; President Chionian, '25; Class Orator, '25; Editor-in-Chief of "Chatter-Box," '25; Marshal, '22, '24; Declamation Medal, '24.

Huck, as he is commonly known, is always busy. However, he does well everything he attempts. He is the guy that keeps the Chatter-Box chattering. He has been very successful in debating. It must be because informal debating or just plain arguing is his favorite diversion. We believe he will be successful in his chosen field—electricity.

ANNIE FULLER YOUNG

Activities: A. A., '22, '23, '24, '25; Secretary Girls' A. A., '25; Dramatics, '23, '24, '25; Literary Society, '24, '25; Hiking Club, '25; Glee Club, '25; Marshal, '23; Chief Marshal, '24; Vice-President Literary Society, '25; "Chatter-Box" Reporter, '25.

Annie Fuller is always smiling and talking. She is a good sport, goes out for basketball, and yet finds time to prepare her lessons well—so well, in fact, that she receives the honor of being Valedictorian of her class. In dramatics and debating she attained pronounced success. The future looks bright for this attractive young Senior.

CLASS HISTORY

QUESTION I

(A.)—How many classmates did you have in your Freshman year?

Answer—65.

(B.)—How many of these are Seniors this year?

Answer—33.

(C.)—What was the general appearance of the Freshman class?

Answer—The girls wore their hairs in long curls or braids. The boys all wore knee trousers. Our attitude was at times timorous and at times proud.

(D.)—What was the attitude of the upper classmen toward you?

Answer—In the eyes of the upper classmen we were not high school students; we were only freshmen, pitied for our ignorance and timidity. We were given much fatherly advice by the Seniors.

(E.)—What were your impressions of the faculty?

Answer—Fear and dread are two words which exactly describe our first impressions of the faculty.

QUESTION II

(A.)—How many classmates did you have in your Sophomore year?

Answer—66.

(B.)—What was your attitude toward your work in your Sophomore year?

Answer—Our Sophomore year was the easiest year of our high school career, and we became lazy as a result.

(C.)—What was one advantage of being a Sophomore in your class?

Answer—Half of us occupied a room with a side door, through which we could slip in unnoticed when tardy.

QUESTION III

(A.)—How many classmates did you have in your Junior year?

Answer—47.

(B.)—Who were your Junior class officers?

Answer—President, George Cheatham; vice-president, Waddell Gholson; secretary, Nannie Faulkner; treasurer, Elizabeth Porter.

(C.)—Identify: (1) Fig Newtons. (2) Cicero. (3) Senior entertainment.

Answer—(1) Fig Newtons are cakes which taste fine ordinarily, but which, when doped with quinine, leave the consumer a horrible sensation. (2) Cicero is a subject which some of us were fortunate enough to finish in our Junior year. (3) We entertained the Seniors at a picnic at Michiner's Pond.

(D.)—How many members of your Junior class are Seniors this year?

Answer—40.

QUESTION IV

(A.)—Did any new members enter your class in your Senior year? If so, how many?

Answer—3.

(B.)—Who are your Senior class officers?

Answer—President, Waddell Gholson; vice-president, Constance Ellis; secretary, Katherine Moss; treasurer, Horace Bass.

(C.)—What is the total enrollment of the Senior class?

Answer—43.

CLASS PROPHECY

AGAIN February the eleventh has passed, the birthday of Thomas A. Edison. This time it is of peculiar interest to me. I was interested several years ago to find that he was at work on an invention that would enable one to talk to those who had taken their abode in another world. On his last birthday, Edison, in trying to perfect this invention, had, by placing his wires on a different place on the bulb, found that he could perform a very marvelous feat, which was wholly a surprise to him—that is, picture the future lives of those now living. Knowing that we had had such wonderful success with the radio in our town, I wrote at once to see if we could secure connections with his wonderful invention. In his usual delightful manner Mr. Edison tendered us the use of this machine, and Mr. Jewel kindly installed it for us in the library of the High School where we were having our last class meeting, as seniors of Henderson High.

Now the room is in total darkness. The familiar quotation, "I dipped into the future as far as human eye could see," is changed to read, "This scientific invention will picture now the future for me."

Behold the first picture—a theatre, crowded with music lovers. The curtain rises; the audience greets the star with enthusiastic applause. In our eagerness to see we almost knock over the wonderful machine. A slender, dark-haired person appears; it is Constance Ellis, famous violinist, making her debut at the Metropolitan in New York. She has discarded her tortoise shell rim glasses and now smilingly views the eager crowd with unspectacled hazel eyes.

A peculiar buzz comes from the machine. While we are still wondering what has happened, we discover that the scene has changed. The surroundings are strikingly familiar; a sign comes into view, Oxford. Now we are shown the interior of a newspaper office. Seated at the editor's desk is Edwin Yarbrough, engaged in what we judge to be a heated argument with three other men who seem decidedly to be the losers. We are not surprised—argument was always a gift with Edwin.

We are now in the residential section of Oxford. Just as we thought, Gladys Parham has entered the bonds of matrimony and is living in an attractive little bungalow for two. She seems quite happy as her husband lets her have her way in everything.

At a flash we are in another newspaper office, The Baltimore World. Who is the reporter arranging her notes at the desk? We see now; she is laughing. Of course, then, it is Thelma Finch—up in Baltimore where she can laugh to her heart's content, with no one to criticize.

What is this? Why are we back in old Henderson High! and here are three of our members! The tall man, reading announcements from the chapel platform, is Cary Nelson. Whoever thought he would be principal of a high school! Who is that standing up? William Bryan, now a sedate professor, is asking his Latin classes to meet in room four after school. Another announcement is being read, "All girls who play basketball are asked to meet the coach, Daisy Lowry, at Cooper's warehouse promptly at three-thirty." We would certainly like to be present at the game, because we know that Daisy, as evidenced by her high school career, must be an excellent coach.

The H. Leslie Perry Memorial Library comes into view. Seated at the desk is Sally Marrow, the librarian. She puts the paper, at which she has been looking with interest on the table, and the front page is enlarged before us. We chuckle over a cartoon drawn by Eugene Adcock. No doubt he has surpassed Bud Fisher. In high school he always delighted us with pictures of the faculty.

Quickly the scene changes. Louisburg College is presented, and we recognize Stella Johnson as head of the Math Department. She is patiently explaining a geometry proposition to a bewildered looking group before her. On the athletic field, Doris Shearin, head coach, is refereeing a fast game of basketball.

The tall buildings and crowded streets of New York pass rapidly for a brief moment, then a handsome hospital comes into view—the owner is presented. He is Horace Bass, now a famous surgeon. The head nurse, in stiff white uniform, trips down the hall. So Lois Goodrich satisfied her ambition, after all! The imposing buildings of Columbia University come into view. Lucy Ayscue is seen lecturing to a large group of history students. We remember that Lucy's love of history was inspired by Miss Claude Hunter way back in high school.

There is a moment's pause. We lean forward expectantly and are not disappointed. A presidential inauguration at Washington! On the steps of the White House, addressing a large crowd is Waddell Gholson. If he is as popular with the people as he was with his classmates in high school the incoming president will be a great success. Who is this with the solemn, serious face and the amazingly dignified attitude? It is Joseph Staunton, Chief Justice of the United States.

The '25 Bulldog

We are still enjoying the scene when it vanishes and leaves in its place a big dairy farm in the western part of North Carolina. Virginia Nelson is sitting on the porch of her up-to-date home reading an article in The American entitled, "How to do as little work as possible." The author we discover to be George Cheatham. No wonder Virginia is interested! We all are. It is so like George to do that. But that is not all that interests Virginia. On a table nearby is a book entitled, "Poems of Life and Love," by Marston Clifton. We knew, of course, with his gift of poetry, he would be famous some day.

A huge building in Durham stops before us next. The sign reads, "Juno Shop—The Beauty Parlor of the South—Grace Sumpter, Sole Owner." There is something familiar about the two attractive young ladies standing at the window of the establishment. They turn towards us, and we recognize Lucy Wester and Elma Mae Massee. They speak to another familiar figure who passes up the street. It is Walter Mixon, usually known as "Chicken." Judging from his appearance, he is the successful chiropractor that he planned to be.

A handsome car rolls leisurely down the street of Dunn, and stops before the Mayor's office. A beautifully dressed woman gets out, and smiles at us. It is Mittie Crudup, who has married the most prominent citizen of Dunn.

"Subtle wiles are in her smile,
To set the world a wooing."

The change of scenery this time brings us to El Paso, Texas. A great crowd is gathered. What is the occasion? Annie Fuller Young, the suffragette leader of America, is making an address. Katie Moss, her efficient secretary, is busy taking notes. No wonder such a throng has gathered! From the applause and interest, we judge that the two leaders are inspiring others with their enthusiasm.

We pass now to foreign lands. At the head of a big mission school in China is Evelyn Parham. Of course, her kind and sympathetic disposition would lead her into work like this.

Again we pause. The scenes have been so rapid and so startling we have scarcely had time to take them all in. Other members of the class of '25—where are they? We have not long to wait. Here is an imposing looking law office. Above the door we read, "Elizabeth Porter, LL. D." She was ever famed for her independence of thought.

A Presbyterian church in Greenville, N. C., flashes into view. Coming down the steps with a Bible tucked under his arm, is Robert Bunn, the pastor. We can imagine that his voice is an inspiration to his congregation, as well as his sermons. The picture changes. The town is the same, but instead of the church we are looking into the interior of a large store. The center of attraction is a traveling salesman, displaying an attractive box of Fig Newtons. We recognize Knox Porter, who we remember in school, "Let the world slide, let the world go, a fig for care and a fig for woe." Perhaps he has added just a touch of quinine to give his ware a lasting flavor.

Scenes change now in rapid succession. Jimmie Miller on the deck of a huge ship, bound for Africa, where he is going to perform the much talked of miracle of changing the Sahara Desert into a Garden of Eden. A large undertaker's establishment owned by Harold Stone, assisted by George Johnson, who sees that all the cars are kept in shape. They, with the assistance of Bertha Clayton, conscientious secretary of the establishment, are busily engaged in covering up the local doctors' mistakes. A famous theatre in Palm Beach! Mary Belle Hicks, charming ballet dancer, appears before a delighted audience.

"When she stood up for dancing, her steps were so complete,
The music almost killed itself, to listen to her feet."

The scene grows familiar; yes, we are on the highway between Henderson and Norlina. Soon we are in Norlina. First thing we see is a large grocery store. As we are admiring the good things in the window, a familiar figure comes out of the door. Yes, sure enough, it is Lula Faulkner—no, not Faulkner, for she has changed her name and it is her husband who owns the store.

We are all back again! Henderson! Home! Everything seems strange, yet familiar, too. Our interest quickens as we view the old scenes. A car speeds up Garnett street. A commanding figure in police uniform stops the driver and delivers a summons to appear in court at nine o'clock. Just as we are determining to keep out of the way of this cop, we recognize him to be none other than Doyle Strange! Well, he certainly chose a lawful occupation.

Presto! We find ourselves viewing the courtroom. More surprises. The pompous and dignified Mayor is Artelia Walters! We glance around the room and discover two other members of our class of '25. Aileen Puckett is City Clerk, and has as her assistant, Pearl King. They are talking together, when the welfare officer and county sheriff walk in. Will wonders never cease? Doris Ellis is looking out for the welfare work in the county and George Aycock is looking out for the misdoers. Our city is being run almost entirely by our old classmates. Surely it is the best governed city on the map!

LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT

Cosmos
Earth
Northern and Western Hemisphere
United States of America
North Carolina, County of Vance
City of Henderson, Henderson High School.

} s. s.

To Our Legatees and Friends, GREETING:

Wills have been made from the dawn of creation; possibly Adam and Job, but surely Abraham and Jacob made wills.

Therefore, we, the Graduating Class of the High School of Henderson, North Carolina, in the presence of friends, relatives and alumni, do hereby, on this day of, nineteen hundred and twenty-five, Anno Domini, make our last will and testament. Of course all that we can bequeath to you cannot compensate for what you have lost in us, for never before in the departure of a graduating class has anyone sustained such an irreparable loss.

ITEM I

To the officials and faculty of the above named institution we bequeath our heartfelt gratitude and appreciation for the guidance and aid they have given to us during the time we have spent with them. We take with us a lasting remembrance of the kindness they have shown us and of the advice they have given us.

ITEM II

To the members of the faculty, severally, we bequeath as follows: 1—To Mr. Garrison the best wishes of the entire class; 2—To Mr. Watson, full possession of the laboratory with all of its queer looking apparatus and bottles of ill smelling compounds; 3—To Miss Roughton, a book on "French Pronunciation for Beginners;" 4—To Miss Beavers, yardsticks, compasses, protractors and other mathematical instruments galore; 5—To Miss Davey, Milton, Shakespeare, Carlyle, and all other fossilized English writers; 6—To Miss Hunter, all the history books that her future classes may require; 7—To Miss Dozier, a carload of note books; 8—To Miss Church, our hopes that her classes may have as little trouble in conquering Caesar as we did; 9—To Miss Hillis, the library.

ITEM III

To the class of '26 we bequeath all the senior dignity and importance which we now possess, along with a few privileges we secured from the faculty in recognition of our attainments, also the responsibility of editing next year's Annual. Furthermore, we bequeath to this same class the energy and determination that has characterized all of our endeavors, and do request that a portion be administered to each member; we recommend that Harry Moore and Durward Royster receive an extra portion.

The '25 Bulldog

ITEM IV

To the present Sophomores we leave our good wishes and encouragement.

ITEM V

To the verdant class of '28, who have so much yet to learn, we bequeath all the maps and books in the school, many of them somewhat worn to be sure; a fact not to be wondered at, considering the constant usage to which they have been subjected during the last few years, also several Latin ponies which will be of great service to them in accompanying Caesar on his campaigns. To the incoming Freshmen we bequeath—advice. Always be respectful to Seniors, upon meeting one, raise the hat, and never fail to say "Sir" when spoken to. Don't enter the building by the front door, there are two side doors which Freshmen are expected to use. Be sure not to wear an expensive tie the first day—you will regret it.

ITEM VI

To various individuals we bequeath as follows: 1—To "Buck" Holmes, the solemn dignity of Robert Bunn; 2—To Ben Brodie, the ways and wiles of that pesky Jimmie Miller; 3—To David Smith, the effeminate disposition of Marston Clifton; 4—To Grace Gaston and Harriet Church, enough cosmetics to last them all of next year; 5—To Hurbert Hight, the lankiness of Cary Nelson; 6—To Ethel Crowder the serenity of Constance Ellis; 7—To Mary Sims Tyler, the giggles of Mittie Crudup; 8—To Howard Upton a "Compleat Gide to Authogrofy," by our distinguished classmate, Robert Bunn; 9—To Graham Hamm, George Cheatham's innate aversion to work of all kinds; 10—To Francis Mixon, Nannie Faulkner's perpetual motion tongue; 11—To John Hill Hicks, the forensic ability of Edwin Yarbrough; 12—To Durward Royster, the energy of Annie Fuller Young, with the request that he remain awake throughout at least three of the seven periods each day; 13—To Sam Peace, Charles Rollins, Brooks Parham and Lawrence Harris, a subdued laugh to be immediately substituted for the outrageous ha-ha's that have grated so harshly on Senior ears.

And we do hereby appoint and constitute John Hill Hicks sole executor of this, our last Will and Testament.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, we the Class of Twenty-five, the testators, have hereunto set our hand and seal, this the day of, in the year of our Lord, One Thousand, Nine Hundred and Twenty-five.

SENIOR POEM

I am seated by the firelight
For my lamp is burning low
And my mind is filled with dreamings
Of the days of long ago—
Of thoughts of the living present
And hopes of future years;
My heart at first is happy,
And then is filled with fears.
But see! The room now brightens
From the fire burning low;
I travel an inland river
Beneath the sun's full glow.
A band of merry boatmen
Now cruise along with me;
They sing and their song is joyful
For the river nears the sea.
Its course is very pleasant
With its forests mounting high,
Its tranquil, flowing waters
And its blue and cloudless sky.
The boatmen all are happy,
Their hearts are filled with glee—
A goal they see in the distance
As the river nears the sea.
Oh boatmen, gay and merry
Though light your hearts may be,
Think now of the many dangers
That are sure to come to thee.
They are there on the restless ocean
Where the countless breakers roll,
Some may be dashed on the cliffside
And some may strike the shoal.
But if we keep our courage steady,
And our purpose ever free
We are sure to reach the harbor
That lies across the sea.

JUNIOR DAYS

You've heard about George Washington
And other great men, too,
But have you ever heard of things
That High School Juniors do?

I'll tell you just a few of them,
T'would take too long for all.
We're such a great big class you see,
Each name I cannot call.

We have all sorts of studies hard,
The worst I cannot tell,
But what I dread the most of all,
Is reading parallel.

When rainy days come round our way,
We have our "stars" to "shine,"
Our monkey, Horace Holmes, performs
And really it is fine.

Then Durward plays with spirits great,
His music has us lured,
And listen, there's a rumor that—
His fingers are insured.

Yes, music is the food of love
Through ages that will ring,
But you'll believe it every word
When you hear Mary sing.

And then we have our football, too,
And there's where "Billy" shines,
He kicks the ball so high, 'tis said—
That once it went to Mars.

Our crowd has orators, yes we,
Randolph and William boast
Their fame will spread o'er North and South
And then from coast to coast.

Now if you want any old things sold,
By auction is the way,
John Hill's the man you're looking for
So get it done today.

Our baseball man's a wonder one,
His playing is the best.
When Raymond plays the town goes wild,
The High School does the rest.

If you like elocution, you
Should hear our girls recite,
Alice and Alta are wonders and
You listen with all your might.

Last but not least there comes C. D.,
Our president, staunch and true,
A favorite with the High School,
And with our Juniors, too.

Oh, we're a jolly Junior class,
Each one so staunch and true.
We think that we are fine and hope,
That you will think so, too.

JUNIOR HISTORY

I CAN never forget that first day of high school life! Sixty boys and girls, fresh from grammar school, fell like a bomb into the midst of a group of dignified Juniors and Seniors. The first time we heard the bell ring each individual seventh grader rushed out of the building yelling at the top of his voice—Fire! Fire! We spent that first year being initiated and generally picked on.

The next year we became Freshmen in earnest though we were not quite so many as before because some of the older boys and girls left school to work. Latin, Civics and Algebra, all as foreign to us as Greek, were begun, and kept us too busy to worry the new seventh graders, for which they were devoutly thankful.

Everything is funny to a Freshman, but when Mr. Johnson caught Caroline Macon throwing a rose on C. D.'s desk and told her that if she wanted to give C. D. roses to please wait 'till recess, well—you can imagine for yourself what happened.

During this term, which was a most trying one for all concerned, we organized a Civics Club with the aid of Miss Mae Hunter, in which we had debates between the two Freshmen classes. All of us remember the president, William Cheatham, trying to appear as dignified as a Freshman can, calling the meeting to order and then at the slightest provocation bursting into a giggle. This same club, which was our only social activity, went in a body to the courthouse to hear a civil case, being tried, which of course we couldn't understand, but which was well worth our while as we missed a whole period of Math.

High School examinations! Questions unknown and absolutely unheard of by us, poured down upon our heads. Some survived but others were unable to breast the storm. Consequently our number was greatly decreased.

Sophomores! The height of our ambition reached at last. How well the name sounded, but, oh, the awful man with whom we had to associate to pay for the privilege, Gaius Julius Caesar! Five different teachers tried with all their might and main to get from us a "smooth English translation," but in vain—we knew nothing!

Miss Roth came to us with the announcement that our class must be organized and met an immovable barrier of perfect ignorance pertaining to such things. With her aid and that of Miss Muse and Mrs. Garrison we finally elected the following officers: C. D. Riggan, president; William Cheatham, vice-president; Durward Royster, secretary, and Caroline Macon, treasurer, and chose colors and motto, both of which were infinitely Sophomorish.

Again debates and speeches, this time in a Literary Club. I wonder if the teachers thought our life work was to be lecturing.

The captain of the baseball team was C. D. Riggan and every Sophomore made haste to inform the school of the fact.

We have now reached the third year in high school. Juniors are neither dignified nor incorrigible. How can we be with the memory of Sophomore pranks so fresh in our minds and Senior honors still looming up before us.

Quite the nicest class in school? Ask us!

JUNIOR CLASS POEM

Thou too sail on O Junior Class,
Sail on, O Juniors, strong and great;
Henderson High with all its fears,
With all its hopes of future years
Is hanging breathless on thy fate.
Thy past has seen some trying strains,
Thy past has seen some noble gains.
But now success thou art attaining,
And every year we see you gaining.
Each one of you have seen the time,
When you felt that you would fall behind.
But now that victory is in sight
Don't weaken, Juniors, keep up the fight.
In spite of what other people do,
Keep pushing upward, strong and true,
And in the future keep this pace,
That the class of '26 may win the race.

JUNIOR NONSENSE

C. D.—“Caroline, did you see the wreck last night?”

Caroline—“No, the only wreck I saw last night was Durward Royster.”

John Hill, fresh from the country, was in the city when a dog ran out and began barking at him. He reached for a cobblestone which, of course, he could not pull out of the street. “This is a crazy place,” said he “they tie the stones down and let the dogs run loose.”

The only jokes Jack saw through were those written on tissue paper.

Chester is so dumb he thinks the square root is a part of a tree.

It would take about as many men like Jack to make a gentleman as it would take lightning bugs to make a moon.

If all Durward's brains were dynamite and they doubled every second for a year and then exploded they wouldn't blow his hair out of place on a windy day.

Once Harry received a letter which began like this: “Dearest Harry, I didn't have anything else to do this afternoon, so I'm writing you this.”

It's a pity Mr. Johnson wasn't here to help us get rid of some of these dogs.

THE SOPHOMORE CLASS

SOPHOMORE CLASS HISTORY

THE class of Twenty-Seven began its career in September, 1916, with about eighty-five or ninety members. We were all very enthusiastic about school life during our first year, but in the second year our interest fagged, and our class greatly decreased, though a few new ones entered to strengthen our band. The third and fourth grades were marked by the "flu" epidemic, and our fifth year on the Sea of Knowledge was not as successful as the previous years, but we managed to sail on to the next port on the sea, where a very successful year was spent under the leadership of Miss Mary Young. My! but we were proud when at last after six years of hard study we entered the High School building, in the seventh grade, again under the guiding hand of Miss Mary. Two of our girls, however, became love-stricken and left us to embark upon the Sea of Matrimony.

Prouder still we became, when, in the year of 1923, our class began its High School course with a roll of sixty-seven members. This year still another of our band embarked upon the Matrimonial Sea, leaving us one less. On the day of our organization, Jack Carter was elected president; David Smith, vice-president; Nannie Crowder, secretary; and Mary Boyd White, treasurer. Under these officers another successful year was passed, but as our Sophomore year began we were much disappointed at the decrease in the size of our class. We, however, entertain great hopes for a prosperous year under our present officers.

*Two more years and we'll be through,
Through with our journey of 'leven long years.
May our paths be successful wherever they lead,
And not be burdened with sorrows and cares.*

The Girls' Athletic Association of the Henderson High School was organized in the year 1924. Before this time the girls had belonged to the High School Athletic Association and had played basketball. But in 1925 the girls went in for baseball and tennis.

Miss Ruth Roth very successfully coached the girls' basketball team during the years of 1922-'23 and 1923-'24. In 1925 Miss Hillis came to us as athletic coach.

We feel sure that the great aim of this organization, which was the creation of good sportsmanship among the girls, has been realized and this spirit has come to dwell among the girls of our organization.

A REVIEW OF THE FOOTBALL SEASON

IN early September Coach Garrison issued the annual call for football. Five letter men and a number of recruits answered this call with the spirit that spells success. Due to the lack of trained material the first practices were long and strenuous, causing many candidates to fall out, thus giving the coach more time with those who were capable of a position on the "Bulldog" eleven. The fighting spirit shown by the boys during the season won for them the name of the Blue and White "Bulldogs." They were outweighed by every opponent met during the season in avoirdupois but not in fighting spirit.

The season opened with our ancient rival, Oxford High School, on the local gridiron. The game was played in a sea of mud, but the locals took every advantage of the dry spots and administered a 12-0 defeat. Next the locals journeyed to Rocky Mount but met defeat. The Durham High lads found us with three injured players and gave us a 6-0 defeat in one of the hardest fought games of the season. Next the boys motored to Louisburg and returned with an overwhelming score. Roanoke Rapids proved too much for the locals because they took our measure 14-2. South Boston came to Henderson and succeeded in knotting the score at 6-6. The locals gained more than three yards to the visitors' one. The season closed with everyone happy for then we defeated Raleigh for the second time in two years.

Knox Porter, George Cheatham, Horace Bass and James Miller have played on the team for two or more years. We are losing these men this year by graduation and their places will be hard to fill. Edwin Yarbrough, another letter man, will be lost for the same cause.

Riggan, Hight, Buchan, Bunn, William Cheatham, H. Finch, Scoggins, Moore and D. Smith are letter men who expect to be on hand next year.

1924—BASKETBALL—1925

THE basketball season opened with a class tournament in which the class of '26 were the victors. Much interest was manifested in these games which proved to be a great benefit in securing varsity material. One of last year's letter men was out the entire season this year on account of scholarship. Another was out part of the season for the same reason. This left only two letter men, George Cheatham and C. D. Riggan, around which to build the varsity. Riggan, acting captain and forward, proved to be a valuable man.

Nelson, Yarbrough and Miller from the Senior class; L. Smith and W. Cheatham from the Juniors and D. Smith and Matthews from the Sophomore class were used to build the team around the two letter men.

The varsity opened the schedule by defeating Townsville, later the squad sustained a great loss by losing L. Smith, who moved away, and W. Cheatham, who was injured. The loss of these two forwards greatly decreased our scoring power. The season's records show that our opponents were held to a low score by close guarding.

The second five are known as speed demons. They are expected to demand attention next season as a number of letter men will graduate.

GIRLS' BASKETBALL NOTES

Doris Shearin, our all-round star on the team, will be missed as much as any of the players, because she is so tall and strong. We feel sure that if she goes off she will be a valuable asset to the team she joins.

Daisy Lowry, the star forward, who has played in this position for three years, will be missed very much by the incoming team, as this is her last year in school.

Aileen Puckett played as a regular for the first time this year; however, we do not see what the teams of the past years have done without her, as we have found her one of our most valuable players.

Mittie Crudup is also a new player on the team, yet although new she has turned out to be our star guard. We will miss her next year.

Bertha Clayton, our good old reliable guard, how she works to win a game, especially if the game be against Oxford. We are also going to meet her in the years to come.

Mary Belle Hicks is a new one on our team, but not new to the game. We were glad to have her, even though she hasn't a chance to play any more; 1926 will miss her.

Shirley Lowry, the sister of our star forward, is also splendid in this position. She will be here for another year, and we are sure that she will be a valuable asset to the team of '26.

Lula Faulkner also leaves us this year. She's a good sport, and has helped our team through many a game; '26 will surely miss her.

BASEBALL

Baseball, the national sport, has always been successful in our high school. We are looking forward to a splendid season this year.

Several letter men are with us this year and are anxious to get in harness.

As this book goes to press the season will not have started. But as the weather turns warm the students begin to think of baseball. From all indications the team will have the whole spirit of the student body behind them as they trot out on the field.

Coach Garrison will take charge of this sport and is preparing a good schedule.

THE WEEKLY CHATTER-BOX

The Weekly Chatter-Box is the official organ of the Henderson High School. It is dedicated to the promotion of a greater high school. The aim of the Chatter-Box is three-fold: to create a more brotherly feeling among the students, to instill a greater love for the school, and to unite the patrons, the alumni, the faculty, and the students in order to make this the best high school in the state.

The Sigma Lambda Literary Society of the Henderson High School was organized on October 7, 1924, with about twenty-five members. The society meets every other Tuesday night under the supervision of Miss May Hunter and Miss Lila Davey. Each term a program committee is appointed by the president to plan the programs of the following meetings. These programs consist of debates, recitations, musical selections, current events, and dramatics.

SOCIETY SONG

(TUNE: There's a Long, Long Trail A-winding.)

We are gathered here together
With a purpose that's clear;
There are duties to accomplish
And a work of cheer.

In the future they'll be telling
Of our victories won;
Then our schemes will not be futile dreams
When we know good deeds are done.

CHORUS:

There's a light of progress beaming
Upon the Sigma Lambda;
And with colors gaily streaming
Our success we see.
There are many ways o' working
To make our efforts ring true,
And we'll surely show the faculty
What the Sigma Lambda can do.

The Clionian Literary Society was organized in the term of '24-'25 with twelve charter members. Seventeen members were formally initiated into the society at the first meeting.

The purpose of the society is two-fold: To raise the literary standard of the school; to train the members in public speaking. With these aims in view, the programs which are given twice each month, have consisted of orations, recitations, debating and dramatics.

We are proud of our achievements during the year. A Valentine party, given to our sister society, was a social feature enjoyed during the year. A joint debate with the Sigma Lambda, and inter-society night were ably represented by Clionians.

"That Some Are Rich Shows That Others May Become Rich"

—ABRAHAM LINCOLN.

Abraham Lincoln, the uneducated backwoods boy, rose from poverty and obscurity to the leadership of a great Nation in its darkest hour.

He believed that what other poor boys had done, he also might do.

Success in his case did not mean money alone but the riches to be found in a country's gratitude, and the wealth of an immortal fame.

His life remains as the most shining example of what may be accomplished by hard work, study and economy.

"I have had playmates, I have had companions
In my days of childhood, in my joyful
school days,
All, all are gone, the old familiar faces."
—Charles Lamb, "Old Familiar Faces."

But you—today—have preserved in this annual the familiar faces of your schoolday companions and the incidents of your school life and in after years you'll come to appreciate more and more the value of this annual and the part that we have played in preserving to you these memories. Knowing this we strive—always—to render the closest co-operation that we too may look back with pleasure and pride on every book in which we play a part.

ANNUAL ARTISTS AND ENGRAVERS
CHURCH & 4th STS CHARLOTTE, NORTH CAROLINA

P R O O F

IT was no accident that the Observer Printing House, Inc., was awarded first prize for quality and third prize for production in a contest conducted by the Miller Saw Trimmer Co. (Manufacturers of Printing Machinery), of Pittsburg, Pa., and participated in by over 2,000 printing establishments in the United States and Canada, but a natural sequence to the policy of this house, "Quality First: Then Production." ¶ This Annual illustrates the quality of the everyday output of our organization, which includes men who are experts in the selection and arrangement of type faces, borders and ornaments, the blending of colors and mixing of inks, thereby enabling us to produce color and halftone printing de luxe. ¶ Our organization is always at your disposal, endeavoring at all times to render an "Efficient and Intelligent Service." ¶ Correspondence Invited.
